

A painting of a coastal town street. The scene is viewed from a low angle, looking down a wide, light-colored street. On the left, a prominent yellow building with a dark, conical roof and a spiral staircase is visible. Next to it is a pinkish-red building, followed by a row of multi-story houses in various colors (blue, grey, white). The sky is filled with soft, horizontal brushstrokes in shades of blue, grey, and yellow, suggesting a hazy or overcast day. The overall style is impressionistic and textured.
